With the prices as low as 1/5th to 1/10th of the west and medical treatment and care of same standards, India today receives more medical "tourists" than any other country.

While searching for the right hospital and doctor is most necessary for you, it is very important to keep in mind these points.

Credentials of the doctor – His qualifications, attachments, achievements and affiliations.

Hospital / Service provider - Nursing Care, Hospitality and Management of the Hospital is equally important as the surgeon.

Accreditations – Accreditations like Joint Commission International, NABH for Indian hospitals by Indian Government and ISO ensure that the hospital adopts the best medical practices and adheres to them.

Testimonials – The best way to select a service provider is to actually speak to one of fellow patients already treated at the centre. He / She will not only speak his first hand experience but also throw light on myths and facts about the hospital.

Pricing – Though Pricing is the largest reason for medical tourism, don't go by it alone. There are different factors to different pricing. Tier 1 A cities like Delhi and Mumbai will cost more than other cities. Also if the doctor is more experienced and acclaimed, he may tend to charge more.

DO'S AND DON'T'S OF MEDICAL TOURISM

Do's

- *If the doctor needs any additional test or procedure, if possible, get it done in your country before traveling to India. Its review by the treating doctor in India will allow the right quote.
- *Research the doctor and the service provider before deciding to travel.
- *If you decide to travel to India, provide your and your attendants passport details to We Care. We will issue you a medical visa assistance letter addressed to the Indian Embassy in your country for faster medical visa.
- *Always travel with an attendant while traveling for medical treatment.

Don'ts

- *Don't go blindly on the name of the hospital, research about the doctor and speak to the patients treated before.
- *Not all modalities are applicable for all medical conditions. Some times a particular modality which you may have a fancy for (eg. laser) may not be the right treatment for your medical condition.

WHAT TO CARRY WHILE TRAVELLING ABROAD FOR MEDICAL TREATMENT /SURGERY.

- *Always carry sufficient money as per the medical quote & little for post hospital stay in a hotel.
- *Carry your complete medical reports and doctors notes for review by treating doctor.
- *Carry the contact number of your local physician. The treating doctor may need to discuss your medical condition with him.

IS IT REAL? HOW IS IT SO AFFORDABLE?

Sometimes it may seem doubtful to trust the level of care at these prices. While the surgeons are heavily experienced with large number of cases due to large population and hospitals have ramped up their facilities and operations to match the best in the world, the costs still remain significantly low due to Indian economy and its low domestic healthcare prices.

HOW DO I GET THE MEDICAL VISA?

As you decide to travel to India for surgery, you will be issued a medical visa assistance letter in favour of the Indian Embassy in your country. This will allow you faster medical visa which comes with host of facilities and advantages over the regular tourist visa.

WILL THE FINAL BILL VARY FROM MEDICAL QUOTE?

While all care is taken by the service provider in providing you the medical quote, it is based on the medical reports and information given by you. It can change in two circumstances. 1. On your arrival the treating doctor will examine you personally. If he finds your condition different / advanced he may advise for a different course of treatment. 2. While you are being treated, if the treatment needs to be extended or altered. On any circumstance your consent will be taken prior to taking any action.

CAN I CONTACT SURGEON AFTER SURGERY WHEN I AM BACK IN MY COUNTRY/CAN MY PHYSICIAN COMMUNICATE WITH OPERATING SURGEON?

Yes, You as well as your physician can contact the treating doctor / surgeon before the treatment as well as after your return home for post treatment / surgery follow up. We Care will connect both the parties through tele conference at their convenient time.
